Dear parents/carers,

These difficult times have been challenging for all members of the school community. Parents are facing the daunting expectation of supporting children with home learning and pupils are missing the routine of the school day and social interaction with their friends. Teachers are working in new ways to deliver blended learning for children both in school and at home.

I hope that the new channels of communication we have established are supporting you in maintaining contact with class teachers. I have also been keen to ensure that all emails to the admin address receive a reply in good time. If you need any support with home learning please seek advice from class teachers via the class emails.

We have endeavoured to support families with devices or connectivity to the best of our ability. There will be more devices and routers available shortly, and we still have some free data sim cards to issue where needed. Please make contact if you need further support.

Thank you to all parents and carers who are clearly going the extra mile to ensure pupils at home are completing the work set by teachers.

While I firmly believe school and early years provision is safe, it is important that within our communities we are all playing our part to minimise contact to protect our NHS and save lives, with the overriding message to stay home if you can.

Regards

Mrs Amanda Forbes
Headteacher
